DEFINITION OF A MASHER.

What is a masher? By one of its commonest definitions, a masher is a contemptible and worthless member of society. There is the young masher, the old masher, the single masher, the married masher, and the limit of the greatest is the married masher. Many of the young mashers are simply unpolished, bad stock, bad stock on themselves and raising that every passing form of excitement is likely to take on the stimulus of megalomania or vanity. But the married masher is a 'thing to be hated and abused.' The kind of man is bad and his ways are bad and dishonest. Happily most men are wise enough to avoid marriage, disingenuous, but occasionally a poorly made man in the condition and as it were. If not completely honest, he is badly signed. Give the married masher a wish that will lend him outside the peril of society.

- HELEN HERALD DISCONTINUES.

Mr. Weller, traveling agent P. T. Brown & Son, of Atlanta, entered into final process against the Picnic Produce Supply Co., of Atlanta, and R. J. Davidson, took possession of the premises, type and other printing materials in the arsenal, and it is officially announced that the firm is to be dissolved. The arsenal, which leaves Helen without a newspaper for the present, is controlled by the Baltimore, which is the official organ of the Georgia legislature. Mr. Davidson has made a strong protest against the closure of the arsenal, but he feared the removal of the arsenal. The arsenal is now in the hands of the company. Indian Head.

- Hiwassee Railway Matters.

A force of men have been put to work on the Hiwassee Canal, and this force will be supplied with other questions as it is ordered from the bond. The first installation of $50,000 will be paid over as soon as the funds are appropriated for the purpose, and is expected to be received.

The directors seem disposed to reject all bids for the future, so as to save the money in hand from the bond.

- The Way.

"Can you tell me the best way to a successful outcome?"

"Certainly, ring the bells."
LETS MAKE THIS A GOOD LOOKING TOWN.

If every man who reads this and every woman, too—would make a better city. I would not have to tell you that the next house he or she has to look around the house premises and see what could be fixed up to look better. It would be a great thing for this town. It might not indicate great profits, but it would change the odds that are dying around. That would be a great help also. And maybe a little in raising the value of the property, if you would find there is a board on the sidewalk, a broken flower pot, a fence, a pile of grass, and a pole or something that can be replaced at a small cost. Houses need a new coat of paint for a long time. Perhaps new curtains are needed at front windows. And the inside of the house in quite as important as the outside—is more important, for you live and where you visitors get their real impression of you and of the town. Chances are you do not get a chance if you will really look about you, there will be several things that can be thereto, if you make a great effort to make things better with the aid of a few boards or nails or a little whitewash or a small purchase, the effect on the town will be great. There is no economy in getting things repaired, putting things off. A house that needs repairs is going downhill and a house that is going downhill is hardly worth the money and comfort. Let's make this a better looking town and let's begin, let's change, let's commit.

Nothing Much Adverse to the Rain.

The rain and the cold weather are the people's enemies, but the fact that they have plenty of rain, and some places are even flooded, is no reason to be sad. People can still go on with their business and enjoy themselves. Let's not let the rain ruin our fun. Let's keep on enjoying ourselves and be happy. A little cold and rain is not going to ruin our fun. Let's not let the rain ruin our fun.
