WELCOME, LITTLE STRANGER

NEVER AGAIN

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The United States Department of Agriculture has just released its annual report on the state of the nation's livestock population. According to the report, the number of cattle and sheep in the United States has increased by 5% over the past year, with the largest gains in the Midwest and the West. The report also notes a decline in the number of horses and mules, as well as a rise in the number of farm chickens.

The report further states that the nation's dairy industry is experiencing a period of stability, with milk production remaining steady. However, the report warns that the industry faces challenges in the form of rising feed costs and increasing competition from imported dairy products.

The report concludes with a call for continued support for the nation's livestock farmers and a reminder of the importance of maintaining a diverse and sustainable food supply.

Haunasse does not seem to be able to draw a deal again.
We are adding houses going up and old ones in a state of repair. We also have different plans waiting to move among us, the school in the most promising it has been for some time, and, last of all, we are all in the habit of being on a draw shoe in town in the near future, Jim Hooper being the great and prominent.

Reyn Woodruff was here Monday morning.

The entertainment Friday evening was a decided success.

A interesting program was carried out, consisting of recitations, chases, comical and entertaining reading, all read by James T. Lingle.

A nice little sum was taken in, and the Women's Civic League presented the town of Hauk, more or less, on the way rejoicing.

The fifth Sunday meeting of St. Zion was quiet and boring.

A number of our people attended and enjoyed the play at Young Harris Thanksgiving evening.

The Young Harris School has been doing dancing work this week.

We hear of weddings and matings of weddings and still we hear news without word.

With this flood came the fall term debates, which is coming to a close in a few days. All

It is on all the minds of everyone in town that the school will soon be open.

It is in this way. The common school is not to be seen.

The only people who are interested are those who have a child in school.
