One step won't take you very far.
You've got to keep on walking;
One word won't tell folks what you are,
You got to keep on talking;

You've got to keep on growing;
One little "ad" won't do it all,
You've got to keep on going.

DEFINITION OF A MASHER.

What is a masher? He is one of the most contemptible, conceited and worthless members of society. There is the young masher, the old masher, the single masher and the married masher, and the limit of the quartet is the married masher. Many of the young mashers are simply padded boobies, badly stuck on themselves and imagining that every passing female is likewise stuck on their aggregation of manly qualities. But the married masher is a "thing" to be hated and shunned, for his intentions are bad and his ways dark and dishonorable. Happily most women easily see through his thin disguise, but occasionally a poor, silly moth flutters into the candle, and its wings, if not completely burned, are badly singed. Give the married masher a kick that will land him clean outside the pale of society.—Fayetteville Observer.

"PLEASE STOP MY—" WHAT?

"Please stop my—" What?
"Times are hard, money is scarce, business is dull, retrenchment is a duty." Please stop my—Whiskey?
"Oh no, times are not hard enough for that yet. But there is something else that costs me a large amount of money every year, which I wish to save."
Please stop my—Tobacco, cigars and snuff?
"No, no; not these; but I must retrench somewhere." Please stop my—Ribbons, jewels, ornaments and trinkets?
"Not at all. Pride must be fostered even if times are hard; I believe I can see a way to effect quite a saving in another direction."
Please stop my—Tea, coffee, and needless and unhealthy luxuries?
"No, no, no, not these. I can not think of such sacrifice. I must consider something else. Ah! I have it now. My weekly paper costs me two cents a week; I must save that. Please stop my—paper; that will carry me easily. I believe in retrenchment and economy."—Literary World.

Ideals of Youth.

It is the ideals of youth that determine the course of mankind. Given the ideals which the young men of a country cherish, and the history of that country for the next thirty years, until a new generation of young men with new ideals arises, can be fairly correctly foreseen.

"SMILE."

"It is easy enough to be pleasant When Life flows by like a song,
But the man worth while Is the man that will smile When everything goes dead wrong."

Whether the above is quoted correctly or not, we do not know, but the idea is there, and after all that is the main thing. It is an extremely difficult matter to smile at all times, and especially so when business is not going as freely as it did before the war began. Every cloud, however, has its silver lining, and sooner or later we will be smiling as of old. In the meantime, try to help matters along a little by bearing with patience the ill humor of some of your friends and try to make them look at matters in a different light. You cannot catch flies with vinegar. It takes sugar, or other sweets. You cannot make friends and customers by looking gloomy and talking that way. You must put on a pleasant smile whether you mean it or not. It is not hypocritical. Try it. You will see that it is contagious. One smile brings on another, and the whole world feels better. Now is the time if ever there were a time to smile, and keep on smiling.—Selected.

HELEN HERALD DISCONTINUED.

Mr. Sider, representing Dodson Printers Supply Co., of Atlanta, entered into legal proceedings against the Helen Herald Pub. Co., and R. J. Davidson, took possession of the presses, type and other printing material and shipped it to Atlanta, which leaves Helen without a newspaper for the present at least. Mr. Davidson made a strong protest and had to be threatened with imprisonment before he tendered the key of the office to the sheriff. The debt was for the purchase of money.—Cleveland Courier.

Hiawasse Railway Matters.

A force of men have been put to work in the Slow Creek Gap and this force will be supplemented with others as soon as money is in hand from the bond sale. The first installment of $30,000 will be paid over as soon as the bonds are approved by the attorneys for the purchaser and this is expected to be received any day. The Directors seem disposed to reject all bids here-to-fore received for the grading as being too high. So much difficulty has been experienced in getting right-of-way down the south side of Valley river, that the directors may be forced to connect with the Southern at Hyatts creek near Marble and come into Andrews over the Southern track. The majority of our people at Andrews seem to be in favor of an independent line all the way, but the difficulty of getting right-of-way and of raising the $40,000 or $50,000 additional money necessary are some of the serious problems that are now confronting the management.—Andrews Sun.

LIFE UNDER MILITARISM--THE SPY SYSTEM

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

Tokio.—It is officially announced that the German fortress of Tsing-Tau has surrendered to the Japanese and British forces.

It is officially announced that the first step in bringing about the surrender of the fortress occurred at midnight, when the infantry charged and occupied the middle fort of the line of defense. In this operation they took 200 prisoners.

The fall of Tsing-Tau ends the most picturesque of the minor phases of the great world-war now raging.

On two continents and in many islands of the seas, where colonies of the warring nations were planted, combats of more or less interest have taken place, garrisons have been captured and towns occupied peacefully, but in the little German concession on the south side of the Shantung peninsula of China, there has been going on since late in August a reduced scale of war that from all accounts has duplicated nearly all features of those battles in Europe that have resulted in the capture of fortified positions.

The capture of Tsing-Tau loses to Germany her last foot of possessions on the Asiatic mainland, as well as her last strategic position outside of the German empire in Europe. For nearly three months the little German garrison of about 7,000 men, and nearly wholly composed of reservists in China, has held out against the land and sea attacks of the Japanese, of certain British detachments of both white and Indian troops that found themselves in China at the outbreak of the war. What the losses of the garrison have been are not known, but the official Japanese and British reports have indicated that Tsing-Tau has been taken at heavy cost of men on the part of the allies.

It was on August 15 that Japan threw herself into the European war as Great Britain's ally, after demanding that Germany withdraw or intern all German warships in Asiatic waters and relinquish possession of Kiaochow. In the statement from Tokio that accompanied this declaration, Japan asserted that her intentions did not contemplate the retention of one foot of ground on Chinese territory, and later affirmed that she did not intend to extend her holdings in the Pacific.

Denounces Charity For Europe.

Los Angeles.—While efforts were being made to raise funds here to succor Belgian war victims, Dr. Milbank Johnson, president of the Municipal Charities commission, published a statement declaring that relief sent to Europe meant prolongation of the strife and suggesting that charity should begin at home. "Scientific methods of war," said Doctor Johnson, "as exemplified in Europe, have brought combatants to realization of the potency of suffering women and children in compelling the conquered to sue for peace. If Europe is determined on a war of extermination, relief efforts may only prolong hostilities. War in Europe has thrown thousands in this country out of work. The consequent suffering and privation are appalling. Charity should begin at home. Has it occurred to many who eagerly hearken to Europe's cry that they have not contributed to the relief of our own unfortunate?"

Servia At War With Turkey.

London.—A Constantinople dispatch states that Servia severed diplomatic relations with Turkey and the Servian ambassador asked for his passports, says the Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company.

German Cargoes Are Affected.

London.—The closing of the North sea to all shipping except that which places itself under the protection of the British fleet is recognized, as the first stroke of Admiral Baron Fisher, the new first sea lord of the admiralty and as one of the most important events of the war. All cargoes destined for German or Austrian consumption must run the gauntlet of British inspection in the English channel, the strait of Gibraltar or the Suez canal.

European soldiers fight in many languages, but the guns speak only one.

German Cruiser Sunk.

Berlin.—Only the scantiest authentic details of the sinking of the German cruiser Yorck are available here. The admiralty has received from Wilhelmshafen little beyond the announcement of the time and place of the accident and the number of men saved. A fuller report, it is expected, will probably be available soon. It is definitely announced, however, that the sinking was due to a German mine and not to hostile attack. The ship, which was under way, presumably swung outside of the channel through a mine field and touched one of the powerful German mines which made short work of the big cruiser. The conduct of the crew, in the moment of disaster, is described as exemplary and there is much regret over the destruction of the cruiser—the heaviest individual loss as yet sustained by the German navy. The loss of the Yorck is counter-balanced in the German opinion by the news of the daring raid of a German squadron into British home waters to indulge in what is described here as "a bit of rat hunting on its own account." The report from the commander of the squadron states that the Germans suffered no loss or damage to men or material and returned safely to its base, where, ever that the retirement of the German squadron, it is stated here, may not properly be described, in the much abused term, as a "strategic retirement," designed to draw its pursuers into difficulties. The names of the German ships engaged will not be published and there is the same reticence regarding the identity of the submarine which sank the cruiser Herme. In well-informed quarters the British report of the sinking of a German submarine by the destroyer Dager is strongly questioned. So far as known no German submarines have been destroyed beyond those whose loss was reported earlier.

Turks Declare Holy War.

Berlin.—According to information given out in official quarters to the press, the Sheikh-ul-Islam, the chief ecclesiastical dignitary of Mohammedanism in Turkey, has issued a decree in Constantinople, saying that in the fighting with Russia, England and France, the duty of every Mussulman is to his faith. This decree is spread throughout the Mohammedan world and announced to the pilgrims at Mecca. A report received here from Constantinople says that the Amir of Afghanistan has sent an army of 170,000 men with 125 guns to the Indian frontier. This news was given out in official quarters in Berlin to the press. The railroad from Herat to Kabul has been destroyed.

British Ships Suffer Defeat.

Valparaiso, Chile.—The German warship Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, Nürnberg, Leipzig and Dresden attacked the British fleet off Coronel, Chile. The British cruiser Monmouth was sunk. The cruiser Good Hope was very badly damaged, and she was on fire, and is supposed to have been lost.

The British cruiser Glasgow was also badly damaged, and took refuge in the harbor of Coronel, and is now bottled up.

Germans Withdraw From Yser.

London.—That the German army has abandoned its attempt to hack its way along the Belgian coast to Calais is agreed by all the official reports. A combination of inundated country, the remnant of the Belgian army under King Albert, and the activity of the British warships, seemingly, all contributed toward ending the costly struggle.

British Release U. S. Ship.

Washington.—By releasing the Standard Oil tank steamer Platania the British government conceded the right of American vessels laden with illuminating oil to deliver their cargo at Danish ports. Great Britain has reached an understanding with Denmark that the oil will not be exported to Germany.

The United States government has declined to recognize any authority on the part of the British government to detain such cargoes with or without an embargo.

When a man realizes that he has been done he wants to roast somebody.

JAPANESE TAKE GERMAN FORTRESS

BRITISH DEFEATED AT SEA

Lose Four Cruisers Off Coast of Chili, German Armies Retreat In France.

After many weeks of siege, about which the outside world has known little or nothing, the Japanese have finally captured the German fortified positions at Tsing-Tau, China. With the surrender of the forts at Tsing-Tau, Germany loses the last strategic position outside of the empire in Europe.

The attack made on the German forts in China by the combined forces of Great Britain and Japan have been made on both land and sea. The forts were almost entirely demolished by the big guns from the ships in the harbor before the land forces made a general assault.

Again there has been somewhat of a lull in the fighting between the allies and the German forces in the north of France and in Belgium. It has been repeatedly reported and generally admitted from Berlin that the Germans have been forced to retire from the region of the Yser.

The German navy scored another decided victory over the British when five German warships met and defeated four British cruisers off the coast of Chile. Two of the British cruisers were sunk, one was badly damaged and another is missing. This makes eleven fighting vessels the British have lost since the war began. In the North sea the German submarines succeeded in sinking seven British cruisers at various times.

A lively fight, in which shells dropped upon the coast of England, occurred on the North sea between British and German ships. England was a little startled over the daring of the German ships in coming so close to the British coast. The German ships escaped. No damage was done.

Intent upon losing no time in giving Turkey a taste of war a combined fleet of British and French warships hurried shells upon the Turkish forts in the Dardanelles. The exact amount of damage done is not known. Servia has declared war against Turkey. The fortified town of Akabah, in Arabia, on an arm of the Red sea, was shelled by a British cruiser and later occupied by British marines.

At the eleventh hour an attempt was made by Turkey to offer apologies to Russia for the bombardment of the two Russian ports and thereby avert war with the allied nations. This apology came in reply to the note sent Turkey by the allies demanding reparation for the bombardment of the Russian towns and the dismissal of all German officers now with the Turkish army and navy.

The Turks steadfastly refuse to dismiss the German officers in their army and navy and for this reason it is believed that Turkey will become engaged in the European war. Efforts have been made by the conservative party of Turkey to avert war and it is said that it was through their efforts that the note of apology was sent to Russia. The young Turks, however, insist upon war and are already making preparations for the occupation of Egypt.

Much significance is attached to the action on the part of Turkey as it is believed that if Turkey declares war it will eventually draw other nations, now at peace, into the conflict. Greece, it is thought, will be sure to take issue with the allies and wage a relentless war against their old enemy—Turkey. Italy, Roumania and Bulgaria may also send their armies into the field.

Germans Retire From Yser.

London.—A dispatch from Amsterdam says: "The Telegraaf learns from Sluis (Holland) that the Germans have retired from the Yser and that the Belgians have occupied both banks of the river. The last village evacuated was Stuyvekenskerke, the troops returning from there to Bruges. The battle is proceeding in the triangle of Dixmude, Roulers and Ypres. Many of the inhabitants are leaving Bruges and are making their way towards Holland."

Germans Hurled In River.

Paris.—The story of a French bayonet attack which forced into the river Oise a body of Germans after the bridge by which they had crossed had been destroyed by a bomb dropped from an aeroplane was recounted in dispatches reaching Paris. The incident took place near Sempligny. The French had been ordered to hold the bridge at any cost. After quick fire had played havoc for twenty minutes in the German ranks the bugle sounded retreat and the Germans poured across the bridge.

A submarine with its periscope shot off is like a cyclops with his one eye punched out.

Czar Receives U. S. Ambassador at Petrograd.—George T. Martyn, Jr., of San Francisco, the newly-appointed American ambassador to Russia, presented his credentials to Emperor Nicholas and formally assumed charge of the embassy.

Prince Of Battenberg Killed.—London.—Princess Henry of Battenberg has been informed by the headquarters at the front that her son, Prince Maurice of Battenberg, whose name appeared in a recent list of killed, met death leading his company.

German Bombs Kill Women.

London.—Two German aeroplanes dropped two bombs at Bethune, France, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail. The first failed to explode, but the second, which fell among market women, killed nineteen of them, and injured forty others. Two bombs were also dropped at Dunkirk on the same day from a Taube machine, 9,000 feet up in the air. A woman and child were killed and all the windows in the neighborhood were smashed. The women of the town are terrified.

Use of German Uniforms Denied.

Washington.—A foreign office dispatch to the French embassy denied accusations of the German press that the French were using German uniforms. "This ruse," said the dispatch, "to which the Germans often have recourse themselves, has never been employed by our soldiers, who, proud of their uniform, are content to fix their bayonets and hurl themselves into the assault of a position. The Germans, however, often have abused the white flag."

Canada Not Worried About Invasion.

Hot Springs, Va.—Robert L. Borden, the Canadian premier, saw here for the first time the published statement of Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, that invasion of Canada by Germany would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine. He remarked that Canada did not consider a German invasion imminent, and that the relation of the Monroe doctrine to such an improbability hardly had been considered.

American Property Damaged.

Washington.—Acting Secretary Lansing announced receipt of a telegram from the American charge d'affaires at Petrograd saying Odessa has been bombarded and American property destroyed. The dispatch from Charge-Wilson transmitted a message from the American consul at Odessa, who said he would send a fuller report later, on the extent of American property damaged. He did not say by whom the bombardment was done, but it is presumed here that it was by Turkish ships.

Exchange of Subjects Arranged.

Washington.—Germany and Great Britain have reached an understanding through the medium of the American government whereby each will permit all enemy subjects except those between the ages of 15 and 50 to return to their respective countries. In no case will women and children be detained. The detention of those between 15 and 50 years is due to the fact that both Germany and Great Britain desire to keep all enemy subjects who could bear arms from joining their colors.

Alfalfa To Replace Cotton.

Athens.—A dozen or more of the most prominent farmers of Clarke county are declaring their independence of cotton, and cotton conditions, by the alfalfa route. The first man in the county to sow alfalfa in any quantity asserted: "If I had a hundred acres in alfalfa in good condition I should feel that I had the means of competency." He explained that he could raise live stock—cattle for beef or milk, mules and horses, hogs and chickens—at the minimum of cost of production.

THE WAY.

"Can you tell me the best way to open the door to a successful courtship?"
"Certainly, ring the bells."

QUITE THE CONTRARY.

"That rich old miser's doctors despair about his recovery."
"Humph! His gay young wife doesn't."

THE MANNER OF IT.

"Did Tommy take the jam openly?"
"I rather think he did it surreptitiously."

THE RESULT.

"Did you test old Jaggins?"
"Yes."
"How did you find him?"
"I found him testy."

LET US MAKE THIS A GOOD LOOKING TOWN.

If every man who reads this—and every woman, too—would make it his or her business, the next hour he or she has, to look around the home premises and see how they could be fixed up to look better it would be a great thing for this town. It might not induce people to do any more than rake up the sticks that are lying around. That would be a great help alone. But maybe while raking up the loose leaves you would find there is a loose board in the sidewalk, a broken picket in the fence, that the corner of the porch has sagged or that the front steps need a new plank in them. And, as you would want to make a complete job of it, you would see that these repairs are made. Maybe the house has needed a new coat of paint for a long time. Perhaps new curtains are needed at the front window. And the inside of the house is quite as important as the outside—is more important, for it is on the inside you live and where visitors get their real impression of you and of the town. Maybe before you get through, if you will really look about you, there will be several things that can be made to look vastly better with the aid of a few boards or nails or a little whitewash or a small expenditure of money. Collectively the effect on this town will be great. There is no economy in letting things run down and putting repairs off. A house that needs repairs is going down hill; and a house that is going down hill is losing value—value both in money and comfort. Let's make this a better looking town; and let's begin, like charity, at home.

Nothing Much Adheres to the Fool.
The fool and his money are not parted much sooner than the fool and his health or the fool and his friends.

Making Boys Useful.

Chinese women may lack some of the privileges accorded to their sex in more modern countries, but they have others peculiarly their own. For instance, when a Chinese lady encounters a mudhole she beckons to any small boy in sight. The boy gets down on his hands and knees in the mud and the lady uses him as a foot-bridge. She is required to give him a small coin for the service.

L. F. Shuford Shot by Rev. Farmer, Northern Methodist Preacher at Hayesville, N. C.

L. H. Shuford was shot by Rev. Farmer, a Northern Methodist preacher, at Hayesville last Friday evening. Shuford and a Mr. Waco Carroll had gone to a creek near Shuford's home about seven o'clock and were engaged in washing some syrup barrels when Farmer came up and asked Carroll if that was Shuford. Carroll is said to have answered in the affirmative; Farmer then told Shuford to look out and, with out further warning, shot him in the back, the ball going through the body. Shuford started to run and farmer shot at him again. As soon as Farmer saw that his gun had done its fatal work, he turned and walked away. Doctors from Murphy, also, were called into consultation but nothing could be done for the wounded man and he died Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

Shuford for years has been known as one of the most notorious characters in North Carolina. Several years ago he served a five-year sentence in the chain gang. Various and sundry offenses have been traced to his door.

Farmer and Shuford had been having some trouble and recently were engaged in a law suit in which Shuford was convicted of slandering members of Farmer's family. Shuford is said to have continued until Farmer became so exasperated he could stand it no longer.

Shuford and his wife have been separated five or six years, and at the time of his death was living alone. The interment was at the Hayesville cemetery Sunday afternoon.

No arrest as yet has been made and it seems that the consensus of opinion is that Farmer was justifiable in committing his deplorable deed.

A reward of $300.00 is offered for the arrest and proof to convict the murderer. It is reported that Farmer has fled.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Philadelphian Literary Society will present the play, "The Revenge of Sherry-bat-sue" in the Susan B. Harris Chapel, Saturday night, November 14. Admission 10 cents.

The faculty of Y. H. C. will present "Deestrick Skule" in the College Chapel on the evening of November 26, for the benefit of the school. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. Everybody invited.

To the Patrons of the Primary Department.

The mornings are cold and frosty and some of the days are cool and damp. The children of the primary department need fires and must have them if they do good work. A child chilled cannot study. The patrons are expected to furnish wood so they can be kept comfortable. If you haven't hauled a load yet do so at once. A load of wood might save your child and mine a case of pneumonia. Don't neglect to take your load at once. It will be appreciated by the teachers and students.

IT MADE A DIFFERENCE

By IRA MONTGOMERY.

"You dear thing!" cried the girl in green velvet ecstatically as she rushed toward the other girl with a great jingling of silver purses and other metallic articles.

"Well, how are you, anyway?" cried the other girl, who was dressed in taupe broadcloth, after she had met the first girl's rush half way. "It has been ages since I saw you!"

"Let's sit down at this table," said the girl in green. "What have you been doing with yourself—and how is Chester?"

"Oh, why did you remind me of him when I was almost cheerful?" moaned the girl in taupe. "I am wretchedly unhappy—do you know, I think I made a dreadful mistake ever to fancy that I was in love with Chester! I—I've broken our engagement!"

"Goodness!" breathed the girl in green, showing vivid interest. "What did you do that for? I thought that you and he were simply crazy about each other! And he is so good looking!"

"That's part of the trouble," explained her friend. "So many people have said of late that a handsome man never amounts to anything and I got to wondering—and of course I want a husband who is going to be somebody!"

"Of course," agreed her friend in green. "Maybe you were wise. Chester has a cleft in his chin, too, and that means a fickle nature. It would be pretty awful to marry a man like that!"

"Oh, I'm so glad to find some one who agrees with me!" cried the girl in taupe. "I've been unsettled in my mind, but you encourage me. You see, he always is so perfectly lovely to everyone that I got wondering whether he could be of a deceiving nature. It isn't natural for anybody to like the whole world, you know, and I have been unable to see why he should be as nice to some one he detests as he is to—"

"I had no idea you thought so clearly as all that," interrupted the girl in green, approvingly. "How wise you are! A man whom you cannot trust is simply impossible. Do you know, I have noticed that in Chester. At the last club dance he talked half an hour with that dowdy Phipps girl, whom nobody notices because she is such a bore. Why should he trouble himself to make an impression on her unless he wanted to ask a business favor or something of her father? Oh, Chester is deep. One might even call him deplorable!"

"That was what I fear," said the girl in taupe. "I thought he better not risk it. Still, sometimes—"

"Now, my dear," protested her friend in green, "don't weaken after showing your good sense! Think how many girls have ruined their lives by marrying the wrong man! Be brave and remember that the right man for you is coming along soon."

"I'm Amazed at You."

"Well, I wish he'd hurry up, then!" said the girl in taupe. "Since I broke my engagement there hasn't been any one to take me anywhere."

"I'm amazed at you," said her friend in green, shaking her head disapprovingly. "You should not let foolish, minor considerations influence you in the least!"

"You don't know," murmured the girl in taupe, "what a help this is to me! From any other person it would not mean as much, but you always seemed to like Chester and so, of course, the fact that you think I did right has a lot of weight. I—"

"Oh, Chester is well enough," said the girl in green carelessly. "You'll be so glad some day! By the way, whom shall you ask to the charity club party?"

"That's just the trouble," said the girl in taupe. "There isn't a single man except Chester for me to ask."

"Mercy me!" exclaimed the girl in green in an annoyed tone. "I was talking about Chester in relation to you only—and of course you have nothing to say about it now. I certainly don't see why I should not ask Chester myself, just because he has had an unfortunate experience with some one else—he's nice to go around with—"

"I'd have you know, Imogene Kipper," said the girl in taupe excitedly, "that my engagement to Chester isn't exactly broken—it's just what you might call bent—and I'd like to see him go to that party with anyone but me. Just you dare!"

"Well, of all the double-faced nerve!" gasped the girl in green. "Take your old Chester! Who wants him, anyway?"—Chicago Daily News.

To the Superior Court of said county: The petition of W. L. Peel, J. N. McEachern, H. F. Brannan and J. A. Sharp respectfully shows:

1 That W. L. Peel, J. N. McEachern, H. F. Brannan and J. A. Sharp are members of the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE.

As such Trustees, they file this their petition to revive the charter heretofore granted by this honorable court to Young L. G. Harris and others, incorporating the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE.

2 Petitioners show that on the petition of Young L. G. Harris and others, this honorable court granted an order incorporating them as the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG HARRIS INSTITUTE, such order of incorporation being granted at the March term, 1888, of this court, such corporation being thereby granted the powers and privileges and subjected to the burdens imposed, as fully shown in the petition for incorporation and the order of court granting the same, as the same appear on the records and minutes of the court.

3 Petitioners show further that at the March term, 1891, said charter was amended by changing the name of the corporation to TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE, and by giving the corporation certain additional rights and privileges all as more fully shown in the petition for amendment and the order of this honorable court allowing same, as duly appears on the records and minutes of the court.

4 Petitioners further show that under the original petition for incorporation, the life of the corporation was limited to a period of twenty years; that such period expired in March, 1908.

Now, therefore, this petition is brought to revive the charter of such corporation, under the provisions of Section 2825 of the Code of Georgia of 1910.

Wherefore, petitioners pray that the charter of the corporation known as the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. Held in trust, that said premises shall be used, kept, maintained, disposed of, as a place of divine worship for the use of the ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; subject to the discipline, usage, and ministerial appointments of said church, as from time to time authorized and declared by the General Conference of said church, and by the Annual Conference within whose bounds the said premises are situated. And that an order of this honorable court be granted accordingly, after due and legal advertisement of this petition once a week for four weeks prior to the grant of said order, in the nearest public gazette to the place where the Young L. G. Harris College is located, same being the place of business of said corporation.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

W. L. Peel, J. N. McEachern, H. F. Brannan, J. A. Sharp, et al.

Sweet are the uses of adversity, and this is one of them, it puts a bridge upon transgression and furnishes a spur for holiness.—Spurgeon.

Death After Victory.

A railway man just outside Mitcham station has found a barn owl with its claws firmly embedded in a rat's neck lying dead on one of the rails. The bird had evidently been struck by a train as it was about to fly off with its capture. Owls are common in the neighborhood, as the station is surrounded by trees, and there are numbers of rats in the vicinity, which make a practice of licking the fat off the railway points.—London Mail.

Few People Walk Properly.

The importance of a graceful carriage can hardly be overestimated. Few people walk properly and well. One's walk should be easy, graceful, and, above all, natural. Do not turn the toes in, but take firm and decided steps. Do not bring the heels down with a thump at each step, but have them moderately long and quiet. A well-known writer says, "Whoever carries the chin close to the neck is all right from top to toe and will walk well."

His Sentence.

Missionary Column.

(By Mrs. T. J. Lance.)

The Qualifications of a Missionary.

The work of a Missionary is extremely difficult. He must labor among strange people. He has to encounter all the difficulties incident in translating himself into a foreign tongue. He is looked upon as one who would tear down the civilization, that he really seeks to upbuild. He comes from a country with customs, beliefs and traditions entirely different from those practiced by the ones whom he would help to save. These things considered the successful missionary ought to possess these qualities.

No man or woman should undertake this high work without having first entirely consecrated themselves. The selfish element must be entirely abandoned, unworthy is he, who would engage in this work with any other purpose save that he would save the souls who are in darkness.

While entire consecration is the basis for the highest missionary endeavor, it is not the only quality. Second in importance is thorough training. The missionary ought to be the best trained man or woman in the community. If a missionary go from the United States he needs, not only consecration of heart, but that broad training that will make him a force in the intellectual, social and industrial as well as the religious life of the community.

Modern missionary effort centers largely around the pedagogical plan. The missionary therefore, who is fully equipped should not only have the bible in his head and heart but he should be able to instruct the natives in our form of government, our social relations, our agricultural process, our judicial system.

Any scheme of religious activity that leaves out of its plan the salvation of the whole man is faulty. Christ came to seek and save that which was lost, the lost body, the lost mind, the lost soul. The missionary therefore, who would be very wise and very successful must have this expansive view of the worth and dignity of human life and human institutions.

There are many other qualities, such as earnestness, sympathy, sincerity, love, patience that a missionary ought to possess but they are all really comprehended in these two, entire consecration and thorough training.

Had the Laugh on Stephens.

The story is told of Alexander H. Stephens that at a political meeting he vigorously decried his opponent's charge, exclaiming, "I deny the fact!" "Yes," promptly replied his antagonist, "that is what I expected you to do. For twenty years you have been going around denying facts." The audience roared with delight and Mr. Stephens left the hall having learned a valuable lesson in the use of a word.

Good Word for the Grass-Widower. "No one seems to dwell on the charms of the grass-widower, and of all men, he is the most attractive. He hasn't a wife in his immediate vicinity to demand all his attentions; he hasn't the consciousness of his own eligibility like the average bachelor, nor the shadow of a dead romance about him like a bona-fide widower. In fact, for ordinary social purposes there's nothing so convenient or charming as the grass-widower."—Margaret Kirby
